The students form a battalion of 6 companies. The course lasts 2 years, and the number of competitors is always large. The Ecole Polytechnique, in addition to the training of artillery and engineer candidates, supplies young men for the naval and state engineering departments, telegraphs, state factories, etc. Admission is by competitive examination, and the age limit as for St. Cyr (with certain exceptions in favor of soldiers). The course lasts two years. The Ecole d Application, at Saumur, completes the education of young cavalry officers from St. Cyr, and the Ecole d Application, at Fontainbleau, that of the young officers of artillery and engineers going from the Polytechnique. The course at the former establishment last 11 months, at the latter two years. The Ecole Militaire, at St. Maixent, completes the military instruction of sous-officers of the infantry and cavalry, who, in peace time, only receive commissions after passing the course with credit. Candidates must have at least two years service in the rank of sous-officer before being allowed to compete, and they have also to pass a preliminary examination at their regimental schools. Admission to the school is by competition, and the course lasts one year. Those who pass through it successfully are appointed sublieutenants. The Ecole Militaire at Versailles for noncommissioned officers of artillery and engineers is organized on similar lines. 3. Austria-Hungary. Officers for the Imperial Austro-Hungarian Army are recruited from two distinct sources - from the military...
