It is to me a strange neglect that has fallen on the Quaker services and influence on the Colonial life of Newport and of the Colony of Rhode Island and the Plantatations. Among the great facts relating to Newport history the following should be recognized and emphasized. 1. The pre-Quaker movement, illustrated in the leadership of Anne Hutchinson and later that of William Coddington, was a soul-liberty event. 2. The early settlement of Quakers at Newport shows it to have been the asylum of the men and women in search of religious freedom. The execution of Mary Dyer was testimony of their faith in great principles. 3. The fact that Quaker governors, resident of Newport, ruled Rhode Island for more than a century, shows the dominance of the principle of Soul-liberty in the Southern Capital of the Colony. 4. The landing of the ship Wood-house at Newport in 1652, with English Quakers, was a significant event in the religious life of the Southern Colony, giving to the body of freemen a new impulse, and freedom of conscience splendid supporters. 5. The visit of George Fox and the establishment of the first Quaker annual meeting at Portsmouth are significant of the attitude of the founders of Aquidneck plantation. 6. The great prosperity of Rhode Island Colony for a century and a half, its attitudes towards...
