Language: English Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Teacher: The School, and the Community In preparing the following pages the author has had in mind the three-fold object of modern education: the training of the physical, the mental, and the moral nature of the child. The environment of school life should be in harmony with his unfolding nature and growing abilities, and it should also be a source of constant pleasure to him. The pupil who is absent from school should be conscious that he is missing something - not enjoying a reprieve. To this end, a variety of suggestions, helps, and recreations are offered to make the study of the common branches more interesting. The chapters on nature study, the country school as a public health educator, and what to do with agriculture and home science may be most welcome to the rural teachers who have been struggling with such problems. Effort has been made to unify the work of the school and the home, and special consideration has been given to the school as a community center and as the stimulating source for clear thinking, good farming, and right living. Thanks are due for permissions to use quotations from the works of various authors. Selections from the works of Longfellow, Whittier, and Lowell, are used by courtesy of the authorized publishers, Houghton Mifflin Company.
